Instructions: Tell this piece of story from the original fairytale with as much animation and character as you can.

A little while later Kay came down with his big gloves on his hands and his sled on his back. "I've been given permission to play in the big square where the other boys are!" and away he ran.

While the fun was at its height, a big sleigh drove up. It was painted entirely white, and the driver wore a white, shaggy fur cloak and a white, shaggy cap. As the sleigh drove twice around the square, Kay quickly hooked his little sled behind it, and down the street they went, faster and faster. Then the snow began to fall so fast that the boy could not see his hands in front of him, as they sped on. The snowflakes got bigger and bigger, until they looked like big white hens. All of a sudden the curtain of snow parted, and the big sleigh stopped and the driver stood up. The fur coat and the cap were made of snow, and it was a woman, tall and slender and blinding white-she was the Snow Queen herself.
